WHEREAS the parties are or may be competitors and believe that confidential information about certain of its research and development activities and other confidential information concerning its activities constitute very valuable commercial information that, if disclosed to competitors or others, would significantly harm it, and

WHEREAS each of the parties expects certain documents, things, and information that are or will be encompassed by discovery demands made to each other or to non-parties constitute trade secret or other confidential research, development, or commercial information within the meaning of Rule 26(c) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure,

Each of the parties hereby stipulates that the following Stipulated Protective Order may be entered by the Court:

1. All Confidential information produced or exchanged in the course of this litigation shall be used solely for the purpose of preparation and trial of this litigation and for no other purpose whatsoever, and shall not be disclosed to any person except in accordance with the terms hereof.

2. "Confidential Information," as used herein, means any information of any type, kind or character that is designated as "Confidential" by any of the supplying or receiving parties, whether it be a document, information contained in a document, information revealed during a deposition, information revealed in an interrogatory answer or otherwise. In designating information as "Confidential," a party

1 will make such designation only as to that information that it in good faith believes contains 2 "Confidential Information."

3. (a) "Confidential Information" includes, but is not limited to, (i) proprietary technical 4 information and specifications, (ii} trade secrets (iii) confidential know-how, and (iv) proprietary 5 business and financial information and any other non-public information, the disclosure of which is 6 likely to have the effect of causing significant competitive harm to the disclosing party or party from 7 which the information was obtained. Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to limit the 8 description of "Confidential Information" set forth in paragraph 2.

9 (b) Nothing shall be regarded as "Confidential Information" if it is information that: 10 (i) is in the public domain at the time of disclosure, as evidenced by a written document; 11 (ii) becomes part of the public domain through no fault of the other party, as evidence by 12 a written document;
13 (iii) was in the receiving party's rightful and lawful possession at the time of disclosure, 14 as evidenced by a written document; or 15 (iv) is lawfully received by the receiving party from a third party at a later date without 16 restriction as to disclosure, provided such third party has the right to make the disclosure to the receiving 17 party.

18 4. "Qualified Persons," as used herein means:
19 (a) To the Court and its officers and staff, including court reporters; 20 (b) Outside attorneys of record for the parties in this litigation and employees of such 21 attorneys to whom it is necessary that the material be shown for purposes of this litigation; 22 (c) Outside experts, consultants, advisors or investigators (collectively referred to 23 hereafter as "experts") who have signed an undertaking pursuant to paragraph 5 but only after 24 compliance with the provisions of paragraph 5 below;
25 (d) To non-party support services including, but not limited to, court reporters, outside 26 copy services, document imaging and database services, design services who have signed confidentiality 27

1 agreements, jury consultants who have signed confidentiality agreements, mock jurors who have signed 2 confidentiality agreements, and language translator who have signed confidentiality agreements 3 (including support staff) as may be reasonably necessary in connection with the preparation or conduct 4 of this action;

5 (e) Anyone to whom the parties consent in writing;

6 (f) If this Court so elects, any other person may be designated as a Qualified Person by 7 order of this Court, after notice and opportunity to be heard to all parties.

8 5. Prior to the disclosure of any "Confidential Information" to any expert under Paragraph 9 4(c), counsel for the Party seeking to make the disclosure shall: (i) deliver a copy of this Protective 10 Order as entered to such person, explain its terms to such person, and secure the signature of such person 11 on a written undertaking in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A, and (ii) transmit by facsimile and mail 12 to counsel for the other Parties a copy of the signed Exhibit A, accompanied by a curriculum vitae, at 13 least ten (10) calendar days before any "Confidential Information" designated under this Protective 14 Order is to be disclosed to the signator. The curriculum vitae should identify the general areas of 15 expertise of the expert, provide a brief job history, specify all employment, expert or consulting 16 engagements by the expert within the past five (5) years, and state all present or prior relationships 17 between the expert and any entity directly or indirectly involved in this litigation or providing an 18 indemnity to any such entity, its subsidiaries or its affiliates. Any Party may object to the proposed 19 disclosure to an expert within the ten (10) calendar day period following the transmittal of Exhibit A and 20 the curriculum vitae, by stating specifically in writing the reasons why the Party believes such expert 21 should not receive designated "Confidential Information". If during that ten (10) calendar day period, a 22 Party makes such a written objection, there shall be no disclosure of "Confidential Information" to the 23 expert absent mutual agreement of the Parties, waiver of the objection as stated below, or further order 24 of the Court. After a Party objects to the proposed disclosure to an expert, the objecting Party shall 25 move, by notice motion or by ex parte application, for an order that disclosure not be made to such 26 expert within five (5) business days following the date that the objection is made, or the Party's 27

1 objection shall be deemed waived and disclosure may be made to the expert. The burden shall) be on 2 the objecting Party to establish why the disclosure should not be made. Each Party shall maintain a file
3 of all such signed copies of Exhibit A. However, it shall not be necessary for administrative, secretarial 4 or clerical personnel working for such Qualified Person to sign a written undertaking.

5 6. (a) Documents produced in this action may be designated by any party or parties as "Confidential" by marking each page of the document(s) with the designation "Confidential"

7 (b) In lieu of marking the original of a document, if the original is not produced, the 8 designating party may mark the copies that are produced or exchanged. Originals shall be preserved for 9 inspection.

10 11 (c) If the document is not in paper form, the producing person or entity shall use other 12 such reasonable means as necessary to identify clearly the document or information as "Confidential."

13 7. Discovery responses or other litigation materials may be designated by any party or 14 parties as "Confidential" by mating each page of the response with the designation "Confidential"

15 8. The designation of information disclosed during a deposition as "Confidential" shall be 16 made either by a statement on the record at the deposition or within twenty (20) calendar days after 17 receipt by counsel of a copy of the deposition transcript. Such designation will be applied to only those 18 portions of the deposition transcript that include a specific question and response or series of questions 19 and responses containing "Confidential Information." The deposition transcript shall be printed in 20 consecutive pages (whether or not some pages are designated as "Confidential") with a marking on the 21 cover of the deposition transcript indicating the "Confidential" designation contained therein. Unless 22 previously designated otherwise, all deposition transcripts shall be treated as "Confidential" in their 23 entirety prior to the end of the twenty (20) calendar day period following receipt by counsel of a copy of 24 the deposition transcript,

25 9. "Confidential Information" shall not be disclosed or made available by the receiving 26 party to persons other than Quaked Persons except that nothing herein is intended to prevent individuals 27 who are in-house counsel or a member of the professional legal department of the Parties from having

1 access to pleadings, briefs and exhibits or declarations filed with the Court and expert reports, including 2 exhibits, that are designated as "Confidential,"

3 10. (a) Documents to be inspected shall be treated as "Confidential" although such 4 documents need not be marked as "Confidential" prior to inspection. At the time of copying for the 5 receiving parties, any documents containing "Confidential Information" shall be stamped prominently 6 "Confidential" by the producing party.

7 (b) Nothing herein shall prevent disclosure beyond the terms of this Order if each party 8 designating the information as "Confidential" consents to such disclosure or if the Court, after notice to 9 all effected parties, orders such disclosures. Nothing herein shall prevent any counsel of record from 10 utilizing "Confidential Information" in the examination or cross- examination of any person who is 11 indicated on the document as being an author, source or recipient of the "Confidential Information," 12 irrespective of which party produced such information. Nothing herein shall prevent any counsel of 13 record from utilizing "Confidential information" in the examination or cross-examination of any person 14 who is a current or former officer, director or employee of the party so designating the information as 15 "Confidential" or of the party that produced the information or of a related entity.

16 11. If a party inadvertently discloses any document or thing containing information that it 17 deems confidential without designating it as "Confidential," the disclosing party shall promptly upon 18 discovery of such inadvertent disclosure inform the receiving party in writing, and the receiving party 19 and all Qualified Persons possessing such information shall thereafter treat the information as 20 "Confidential" under this Order. To the extent such information may have been disclosed to persons 21 other than Qualified Persons described in this document, the receiving party shall make every reasonable 22 effort to retrieve the information promptly from such persons and to avoid any further disclosure to and 23 by such persons.

24 12. A party shall not be obligated to challenge the propriety of a designation as 25 "Confidential" at the time made, and a failure to do so shall not preclude a subsequent challenge thereto.
26 Nor will the failure to object be construed as an admission that any particular "Confidential Information"

1 contains or reflects currently valuable trade secrets or confidential commercial information. In the event 2 that any party to this litigation disagrees at any stage of these proceedings with the designation by the 3 designating party of any information as "Confidential," or the designation of any person as a Qualified 4 Person, the parties shall first try to resolve such dispute in good faith on an informal basis, such as 5 production of redacted copies. If the parties are unsuccessful in informally resolving any disputes 6 regarding the designation of any document or information as "Confidential," the Court shall resolve all 7 such disputes. It shall be the burden of the party making any designation to establish that the 8 information so designated is "Confidential" within the meaning of this Protective Order. The 9 "Confidential Information" that is the subject of the dispute shall be treated as originally designated 10 pending resolution of the dispute.

12 13. The parties may, by written stipulation filed and approved by the Court, amend this 14 Order, and any party may seek an order of this Court modifying this Protective Order. The parties agree 15 to meet and confer prior to sacking to modify this Protective Order. In addition, the Court may modify 16 this Protective Order in the interest of justice or otherwise at the Court's discretion.

17 18. In the event a party wishes to use any "Confidential Information" in any affidavits, briefs,
19 memoranda of law, or other papers filed with the Court in this litigation, such "Confidential 20 Information" used therein shall be filed under seal with the Court.

21 22. The Clerk of this Court is directed to maintain under seal all documents and transcripts of 23 deposition testimony and answers to interrogatories, admissions and other pleadings filed under seal 24 with the Court in this litigation that have been designated, in whole or in part, as "Confidential" by a 25 party to this action.

26 27. If a Party intends to offer into evidence or otherwise disclose in open court any 28 "Confidential Information" designated by another person or entity, counsel for such Party shall notify the designating person or entity that the Party intends to disclose "Confidential Information" in open court prior to the disclosure, so that the designating person or entity may confer with the Court concerning appropriate procedures for protecting its "Confidential Information."

1       17. In the event any person or party that has possession, custody, or control of any 2 information designated as "Confidential" pursuant to the terms of this Protective Order receives a 3 subpoena or other process or order to produce such information, such person or party shall notify by 4 mail within five (5) business days of the Party's receipt of the request, the counsel for the party or 5 persons claiming confidential treatment of the documents sought by such subpoenas or other process or 6 order, shall furnish such counsel with a copy of said subpoena or other process or order, and shall 7 cooperate with respect to any procedure sought to be pursued by the party whose interests may be 8 affected. The party asserting the "Confidential" treatment shall have the burden of defending against 9 such subpoena, process or order. The person or party receiving the subpoena or process or order shall be 10 entitled to comply with it except: (a) to the extent the party asserting the "Confidential" treatment is 11 successful in obtaining an order modifying or quashing it; and (b) in complying with the process or 12 order shall, at a minimum, seek to obtain "Confidential" treatment of the "Confidential Information" 13 before producing it in the other proceeding or action.

15       18. If the discovery process calls for the production of information that a Party or Non-Party 16 does not wish to produce because the Party or Non-Party believes its disclosure would breach an 17 agreement with another person or entity to maintain such information in confidence, the disclosing Party 18 or Non-Party promptly shall give written notice to the other person or entity that its information is 19 subject to discovery in this litigation, and shall provide such person or entity with a copy of this 20 Protective Order. When such written notice is given to the person or entity, the disclosing Party or Non-21 Party will advise the potential receiving Party that such notice has been given. The person or entity 22 whose information may be subject to discovery shall have ten (10) business days from receipt of the 23 written notice in which to seek relief from the Court, if the person or entity so desires. If the ten (10)
24 business days elapse without the person or entity seeking relief from the Court, the requested 25 information shall be produced in accordance with the terms of this Protective Order.

27       19. In the event that additional persons or entities become Parties, none of such Parties' 28 counsel, experts or consultants retained to assist said counsel, shall have access to "Confidential"

1 Information" produced by or obtained from any other producing person or entity until said Party has 2 executed and filed with the Court its agreement to be fully bound by this Protective Order.

3 20. This Protective Order shall apply to the parties and any non-party from whom discovery 4 may be sought and who desires protection for the discovery sought. Thus, any non- party requested or 5 required to produce or disclose information in this proceeding, through subpoena or otherwise, may 6 designate such information pursuant to the terms of this Protective Order.

7 21. (a) Nothing herein requires disclosure of information, documents or things which the 8 disclosing entity contends is protected from disclosure by the attorney-client privilege or the work-
9 product exception. Nothing herein shall preclude any party from moving this Court for an order 10 directing the disclosure of such information, documents or things.

11 (b) In the event that any privileged attorney-client or work product documents or things 12 are inadvertently produced for inspection and/or provided, the disclosing party shall identify such 13 documents or things within five (5) days of when it discovers that the privileged materials were 14 inadvertently produced for inspection and/or provided, and either (1) copies shall not be provided, or (2) 15 if copies have already been provided, all copies in the receiving party's possession shall be promptly 16 returned (and not relied upon) by the receiving party. Nothing in this paragraph shall prevent the 17 receiving party from contending that the identified materials are not privileged, that the material was not 18 inadvertently produced, or that privilege was waived for reasons other than mere inadvertent production 19 of the material.

20 22. Within ninety (90) days after conclusion of this litigation and any and all appeals thereof, 21 any document and all reproductions of "Confidential" documents produced by a party that are in the 22 possession of any Qualified Person shall be returned to the producing party or, with the consent of the 23 producing party, destroyed. If destroyed, counsel for the receiving party shall certify to counsel for the 24 producing party compliance with this paragraph within fourteen (14) calendar days of such destruction.
25 Outside counsel for each party may maintain in its files one copy of all material produced as well as all
26 materials filed with or otherwise presented to the Court, deposition and trial transcripts, and work
27 materials filed with or otherwise presented to the Court, deposition and trial transcripts, and work 28

1 product (regardless of whether such materials contain or refer to "Confidential" materials). If counsel 2 retains such materials, the materials which contain Confidential Information shall be accessible only by 3 Qualified Persons designated in paragraph 4(b) above. As far as the provisions of any protective orders 4 entered in this action restrict the communication and use of the documents produced thereunder, such 5 orders shall continue to be binding after the conclusion of this litigation including any subsequent 6 appeals or later proceedings, except that (a) there shall be no restriction on documents that are used as 7 exhibits in Court unless such exhibits were filed under seal, and (b) a party may seek the written 8 permission of the producing party or order of the Court with respect to dissolution or modification of 9 such protective orders. The Court shall retain jurisdiction to enforce the performance of said obligations.
10

11 23. Unless otherwise ordered by the Court or permitted in writing by the producing party, all 12 source code produced or exchanged in the course of this litigation shall be Confidential Information and 13 access thereto shall be limited to the outside attorneys of record for the parties in this litigation and 14 employees of such attorneys to whom it is necessary that the material be shown for the purposes of this 15 litigation and not more than three (3) outside experts who have signed an undertaking pursuant to 16 paragraph 5 but only after compliance with the provision of paragraph 5. Any notes or other 17 information created as a consequence of such access shall also be Confidential Information under this 18 protective order. Working copies of the source code shall be maintained by the receiving party in a 19 secure facility which, in the case of Synopsys means Synopsys' Secured User Research Facility (SURF)
20 and in the case of Ricoh, means a locked office at the law firm of Dickstein Shapiro Morin & Oshinsky, 21 LLP and which contains a computer which is not a part of any network and on which the source code 22 can be loaded.
23

24 24. This Order shall not bar any attorney herein in the course of rendering advice to his client 25 with respect to this litigation conveying to any party client his evaluation in a general way of 26 "Confidential Information" produced or exchanged herein; provided, however, that in rendering such 27 advice and otherwise communicating with his client, the attorney shall not disclose the specific contents 28

1 of any 'Confidential Information" produced by another party herein, which disclosure would be contrary 2 to the terms of this Protective Order.

3 25. This Protective Order may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall 4 be deemed an original, but all of which shall constitute one and the same instrument.
